

Disclaimer

The materials available on or through this website are general in nature, and are not intended as professional advice.

We update the material on our website regularly, and we do our best to ensure that it is of a high quality, accurate, reliable, up-to-date, complete, available to the public and suitable for its purpose. However, you should carefully evaluate material and, where appropriate, seek professional advice relevant to your circumstances.

Despite our best efforts, it is possible that our website may be subject to a virus, or an outage.

To the maximum extent permitted by law, the Queensland

Ombudsman:

- Does not guarantee the quality, accuracy, reliability, currency, completeness, availability or suitability of any material contained on the website or linked to the website.
- Does not accept liability (including without limitation, liability in negligence) for any expenses, losses, damages or costs arising from or connected to the quality, accuracy, reliability, currency, completeness, availability, or suitability of any material contained on the website or linked to the website.
- Does not guarantee, and accepts no liability (including without limitation, liability in negligence) for any expenses, losses, damages or costs arising from or connected to, infection by computer viruses, malware or other cyber threats through our website or links to our website.

Any links to other websites are inserted for convenience only, and do not constitute endorsement of material on those sites, or of any other organisation. If you use a link on this website to visit another website, the material on that website is governed by the other organisation's disclaimer and any terms of use, including licence terms.

Last updated: 6 December 2023